About the author

Leo Meggitt is a Founding Partner at Forster Chase, the executive search and talent advisory business for the asset management and insurance sectors. He oversees our asset management practice which provides solutions to asset managers, investment consultancies, fiduciary managers and pension funds. Leo has worked in partnership with a wide variety of investment institutions from large, listed companies through to boutique firms, recruiting top talent in areas such as distribution, portfolio management, investment strategy and general leadership. He has worked extensively with large UK pension funds to find their next Pensions Head or Chief Investment Officer and was responsible for building a large team of pensions experts to create and build the UK's largest multi-employer DC scheme – Leo's differentiating factor against his competitors is the work he has done with asset owners. A regular contributor to various industry publications, Leo also provides market intelligence to clients and the wider industry in addition to the provision of talent solutions, giving him a strong profile in the institutional investment industry.
